Description

Voted Harpers Bazaars '4th Most Fabulous Villa in The World', and with a 6-page spread in Italian Architectural Digest, 6 times in Vogue Magazine, this 'Fabulous Villa' comes on the market for the first time.

With its Zen-like interior, Villa Roca is the antithesis of the wood-beam aesthetic of traditional Ibizan fincas. Cut into the rock, the villa sits within the Truntoi mountain range, a forested nature reserve thick with wild flowers. Despite being virtually self-sufficient in water and using low-energy electricity, each suite has a plasma or LCD television, DVD and sound system. Hedonism isn't confined to the bedroom though: there are three pools, a dance floor and Bedouin chill-out tent. Chefs cook local specialities such as Ibizan goat's-cheese soufflé and lobster paella, using organic ingredients in line with the island's boho style. Even though the location is secluded, Ibiza Town is just six kilometres away, meaning with Villa Roca, the party will come to you.
